

2019 ICAN Annual Dinner and Dance

It was a night to remember as the ICAN UK & District society members gathered with other professionals and friends at the Intercontinental Hotel, 1 Waterview Drive, Greenwich Peninsula, O2 London on Saturday 30th November for their annual dinner and dance (ADD) for 2019. The hotel which sits strategically beside the Thames river provided a great view into the City of London at night.

It was a time to relax, refresh and catch up with professional colleagues and friends as the year wound down. The event nicknamed "The Mother of ADDs" was well attended. Starting the day of the red-carpet event, delegates were treated to canapes, 3 course dinner, music and dance. The special highlights of the day were the raffle and the tombola.

Members and guests participated in raffle draws which affords them to win designated prizes. For the Tombola, the district ensured that all guests went home with a gift which were donated by members of the association.

The special guest of honour at the dinner was Nnamdi Anthony OKWUADIGBO (Mazi), BSc, FCA the 55th president of the institute. He was ably supported by the past Chairs of the district. The president in his speech congratulated the District for the great work and encouraged members to keep the flag of the district flying.

The Chair of the district Mr. Tunde Wey had earlier welcomed the president, members, and their guests to the dinner. He also used the occasion to reiterate his vision for the District.

The benevolent fund committee were not left out as they used the occasion to share their vision and solicit support for the fund.

After the sumptuous 3 course dinner of the day, members displayed their dancing steps on the floor. The turnout was great, and guests are well appreciated.
